New York, June 30.—The Highlanders and Washingtons played a single header to-day for a chance, and the Highlanders won on the strength of some safe, but not stupendous, hitting in the second inning.

Admirably done by bunting and a modicum of luck, they scored enough runs in that inning to establish a winning lead. Joe Lake batted in two runs himself, and pitched his best when men were on bases. There was better team play and more speed behind him than behind Groom, the human skyscraper, who also pitched creditably.

Lake had something mysterious on the ball from the start, and his splitter broke away so sharply that hitting was mostly guesswork with the Washingtons, who got only a lucky hit or two.

Sweeney caught Lake like a veteran, and others who gladdened the heart of the big pitcher by their good assistance were Austin and Elberfeld. There has not been any third-base play around here lately that had anything on Austin's game. Elberfeld did a lion's share of the extermination of ground ball.

Livelihood Makes Hit.
The first run on each side was conceded by a base on balls. Two were down in the second inning when Lake lost the plate for the first time, passing McBride. Livelihood's lout flogged a hit to right, and Street's baton lined one to left, McBride coming home on the latter hit.

With two on bases Lake struck Groom out. Demmitt was passed by Groom in the second inning with nobody out—good waiting by Ray. Knight bunted—no run to the right spot for Conroy and Groom not to be able to field the ball. Austin bunted and was safe on Groom's fumble.

Groom tried to scoop and throw simultaneously and therefore made a success of neither. Sweeney bounced one to Donohue and all Jiggs could do was to hold the ball and wonder why nobody covered first.

Demmitt came in on the scratch hit and Lake reached out and pitched a hit to left field on which Knight and Austin tallied, Austin being on top of Knight in a minute and the two crossing the plate in intimate tandem.

Groom's error forgotten how to bunt and was safe on a pretty one in the third inning. He was the batter, but was forced when Knight made a one-handed catch of Austin's wild throw. The next two batters couldn't get the ball on the diamond, Unglaub fanning and Deleahanty fouling.

The New Yorks scored again in the next inning. Austin shot a single past Conroy and could have made two bases if he hadn't waited to hear whether Sheridan said fair or foul. "That ball is fair and you may run on it Mr. Austin," Sheridan having said he had been a master of ceremonies, school of instruction, or something of that sort, but being only an umpire and the hit being fair he didn't say anything. Sweeney's sacrifice and Cree's hit to center scored Austin.

Elberfeld's Star Play.
Elberfeld rubbed Deleahanty off the slate with a great stop behind second base in the sixth, and the only time when the Washingtons were dangerous was in the seventh and eighth. Two had been put out in the seventh before Street singled. Groom fled to Cree, who huffed the ball. Elberfeld went out for the fly, too, but stopped far enough away from Cree to clear field. The kid was not to blame in any way for Cree's muff, and Cree picked up the ball and threw it wildly to Austin, allowing Street to score. Brown was passed, and Lake rose to the occasion again by striking out Conroy.

Deleahanty's scratch hit, the ball bouncing fearfully away from Austin; Donohue's safe fly to left, and a base on balls struck by Sweeney, were the three consecutive to the peace and comfort of the Stallings allies. There were two out, but Street was at the bat. Donohue, Altrock, and Unglaub from various points of the compass implored "B. Gabby" to make a hit, but old boy Joe took the whole burden on himself once again and struck Street out with three flashing shoots over the corner.

NATIONALS DROP ANOTHER

To New York Highlanders

One bad inning. Better luck to-day, boys. Groom twined good ball at that. Out of three times up Jack Livelihood got two hits.

Leftvelt seems to have replaced Milan in center field.

Conroy was the only National to steal a base, while Chase has one to his credit for New York.

George Browne continues to soak the ball on the nose. Guess the prodigious son is rounding into shape.

Nationals in New York again to-day and to-morrow. Let's get 'em both boys and crawl out of last place.

Groom struck out five and Lake had seven to his credit. Washington never has been able to do very much with Lake.

The Yankees are calling for Catcher Kleinow, out of the game on account of injuries at present, but Sweeney seems to be doing a pretty fair job.

The Washington players declare that Umpire Sheridan is the fairest arbitrator in the American League. Sheridan is on the job in New York with Kerin for the present series.

ATHLETICS TAKE TWO.

Clinch Second Place by Twice Defeating the Red Sox.

Boston, June 30.—The Red Sox hit the dust twice this afternoon, and the Athletics therefore have a comfortable hold on second place. In both games the visitors outplayed and outbatted the home team, which is in a crippled condition.
